Out With The Old, In With The New

Greetings, neighbors. I'm writing this while sitting in the sun room of my home on the 2nd day of the New Year. The sun room isn't very sunny, right now. There is a cold rain falling and the weather is cloudy and dark. The world seems to be taking its winter nap, resting up for the springtime that is to come.

It is a good time to rest and reflect on the year just past. It was an eventful year for me! It was about a year ago that I decided to "come out of retirement" and serve as president of the LVNA once again. The LVNA year has gone by quickly, and all of its annual undertakings have been safely accomplished once more. We had our Dumpster Day, our Picnic and our Parade as usual. Each one was a trial and an ordeal to accomplish (as each one always is), but they all came off without a hitch. The LVNA team with its many resourceful members came through again. 2010 is now in the record books.

THE PAST AND THE FUTURE

2010 was an important year for the LVNA, and 2011 will be an even more important one for it and for our neighborhood.

Organizations like the LVNA have their "ups and downs". When I returned as president last year, the neighborhood association was at a low point. I got myself involved again because there had been no LVNA president for nine months and the LVNA Holiday Parade was (Continued on page 5)

January Meeting:

Sunnyvale Schools and DPS "Vial of Life" program.

By Fred Fowler

Two of the most important assets the Lakewood Village community has are the fine elementary schools located in the centers of the two parts of our neighborhood. Our relationship with the schools and the school district that runs them dates back to the very founding of our community. When Lakewood Village was conceived back in the 1950s, the plan was to build a "family oriented" development with its own schools, churches and shopping center. That initial plan has stood the test of time with modern day Lakewood Village retaining that same basic outline. The Lakewood and Fairwood elementary schools are in many ways more important to us than ever, providing an educational focus for the young families who live here and serving as a focal point for a number of community activities.

For these and other reasons, I am pleased to welcome Dr. Benjamin Picard, Superintendent of the Sunnyvale School District as our first guest speaker at the January LVNA meeting. Please come to the Lakewood Park building at 7:00pm on Wednesday, January 12th to hear him give his "State of the District" presentation (Continued on page 2)

Hanging Shoes

by Fred Fowler

Have you noticed pairs of shoes hanging from utility wires high in the air? They are common in many parts of Silicon Valley, and a particular pair of them has been hanging for several years near the intersection of Lawrence Expressway and Lakehaven Drive, the entrance to the western half of our neighborhood.

To the unsophisticated eye, these appear to be the result of some kind of childish prank. It looks like some poor kid lost his shoes to a bully who threw them (Continued on page 3)

January Meeting

And answer questions about the district, our schools, and the upcoming challenges facing them. I'm sure it will be an interesting presentation.

In addition to Dr. Picard, I would also like to welcome Lieutenant Ryan Yin of the Sunnyvale Department of Public Safety as our second speaker of the evening. Lieutenant Yin will speak to us about a new prescription drug drop-off service at our local fire station, and also about the department's "Vial of Life" program.

These two guest speakers should provide a good start for this new LVNA year. Please mark your calendars! Start off the New Year with some good information about these matters of public concern. I'll see you there.◆

Holiday Lighting Contest

By Phyllis Fowler

Once again our neighborhood has lived up to its tradition of lighting up the winter's gloom! There were so many houses festively decorated that it was hard to decide on the winners. Our celebrity judge this year was Lakewood School Principal Annette Grasty. Special kudos to Manzano! Several houses on both sides were decorated with a lot of enthusiasm. It must have hard to narrow down the 1st and 2nd prizes this year. ◆

And the Winners are:

1st: 11196 Redrock	2nd: 1224 Manzano
1st: 1381 Socorro	2nd: 1313 Socorro
1st: 737 Lakefair	2nd: 661 Lakehaven
1st: 750 Lakemuir	2nd: 722 Lakewood

Martin Luther King Jr. Day

By Phyllis Fowler

In honor of the observation of Martin Luther King's birthday on January 17th, I thought I would share some of my favorite quotes from him.

A genuine leader is not a searcher for consensus but a molder of consensus.

Every man must decide whether he will walk in the light of creative altruism or in the darkness of destructive selfishness.

Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that. ◆ high up and out of reach. One can imagine a smaller boy being victimized by a gang of bigger ones, with the shoes representing a kind of "victory trophy." They stay up there year after year, because it is not worth anyone's time to try to get them down.

To a more experienced observer though, the shoes have an entirely different meaning. They are probably the result of gang activity, not a "victory trophy". They are in fact a kind of advertisement. Those shoes hung up on those overhead wires are nothing more than a kind of "FOR SALE" sign. They were deliberately put up there to let people know that drugs are for sale nearby.

The corner of Lawrence and Lakehaven has been a center of drug activity in the past. When I was president of the LVNA back in the 1990s, we were able to bust a heroin dealer who was operating in the parking lot between the Dick's Market shopping center and the gas station. The local "war on drugs" has had its ups and downs over the years, and I'm not sure how well things are going now. Those shoes on the high wire may be a leftover from the past, or they may be an indication of a thriving present day business. It's hard for law abiding people to know for sure.

What should be done about this situation? One step is pretty obvious. Take the shoes down! If they are a leftover from past drug activity they won't reappear. If they are an indicator of a present day problem they may get replaced. Either way, getting them removed will send a message about the kind of place Lakewood Village is, and that drug sales are something the neighborhood doesn't like very much.

Let's get those shoes at Lawrence and Lakehaven down. If there are other pairs of shoes hanging in other parts of Lakewood Village, let's get them down too.

We have a few problems to solve. The first one is to find a good way to get the shoes down. It shouldn't be too hard a problem to solve. Perhaps we could get a "cherry picker" truck to help us, if someone in the neighborhood has access to one. Perhaps we can rig some kind of pole with a knife on the end of it to reach up and cut the laces. I can think of several ways to dislodge the shoes. How about you? If anyone has an idea, please give me a call at (408) 505-2813, or send me an e-mail at fred@fmfa.com and let me know.

The second problem to solve is to be sure we get all of the shoes down and remove any new pairs that show up afterwards. Do you know of any other places these shoes are hanging besides Lawrence and Lakehaven? Would you be willing to watch for more? Please call me or e-mail me with the locations of any pairs you know of or notice as they appear.

The third problem is to organize some volunteers to remove the shoes. I'm willing to be the first one. How about you? Do you have access to the tools we would need? Would you be willing to help improvise something? Could you give up an hour or so of time to help take shoes down? Once again, please call or write to me (continued on page 5).

In the 1990s the neighborhood fought and won a war against graffiti. Those of us who were here back then remember how

Sunnyvale Rotary Club Donates Books to Fairwood Students

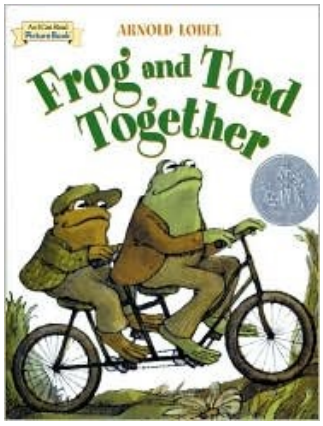

By John Dugan, 12/23/2010

reprinted from the Sunnyvale Sun

Members of the Rotary Club of Sunnyvale had a very simple goal with their most recent book donation effort at Fairwood Elementary School earlier this month-they wanted to see the fruits of their labors.

"We've been giving children books for years, but we've never been able to read them to the kids ourselves," said Flo Stafford, the Rotarian who organized the donation and reading. We wanted to see how our gifts were being received."

The response the Rotary Club got was more than its members hoped for, Stafford said. Seven club members went to Fairwood on December 2 to read to the kids, and all 80 kindergarten and first-grade students at the school received a copy of "Frog and Toad Together." by Arnold Lobel. It was the first time the rotary Club did an in-person donation at Sunnyvale school.

The kids had a great time, and the Rotary members were just thrilled," Fairwood principal Sarah Tellez said. "A lot of our kids just don't have access to books, so this was greatly appreciated."

The Rotary Club has a number of donations and events every year to promote literacy in children but always in a hands-off manner. Last year, the club donated $2,000 to Fairwood to sponsor a kindergarten readiness seminar for parents, but members were not involved in the event itself.

Stafford said the club was looking for a way to interact with some of the kids they were benefitting, so they approached Rotarian and Sunnyvale School District Superintendent Ben Picard about a donation and reading event. Picard put Stafford in touch with Tellez, who were thrilled by the idea.

The Rotary Club purchased the books from Leigh's Favorite Books in downtown Sunnyvale. Stafford said the bookstore gave them a good deal on the 80 books and helped pick the title. Seven Rotarians then went to four classes at Fairwood, where each member read "Frog and Toad Together" for a group of kids.

Stafford and Tellez both said they plan to duplicate the event next year, and Stafford added that the Rotary Club is looking into going to other Sunnyvale schools with the idea. Aside from seeing their donations at work, the club members appreciated the chance to spend some time with the kids.

"Some of us have grandchildren that live far away and we just don't get to interact with kids that much," Stafford said. Rotary tries to be more than just a check writing organization, and this was a great chance to do something more." ◆ to let me know what you can do.

In the 1990s the neighborhood fought and won a war against graffiti. Those of us who were here back then remember how bad it was and how much work it took to drive it away. The strategy was simple: whenever a new tag showed up, the job was to clean it off or paint it over. It took years of work and sacrifice by some wonderful volunteers, but in the end the neighborhood won. Some of our kids told us later that the graffiti stopped, because painting it out showed that we cared. Our neighborhood was worth caring about, so the graffiti people started to care too.

I don't think we'll have to fight a war on these "drug shoes" (at least I hope not!), but we may have to go back and re-remove some of them more than once. We'll see.

I plan to go to the corner of Lawrence and Lakehaven some weekend morning and take care of the pair of shoes that are up there. I'm not quite sure how I will do it, but I will find a way.

How about you? Will you help? Please let me know. ◆

about to be canceled for the first time in more than 30 years.

My goal when I became LVNA president was to give the organization a good year similar to the ones we had in the 1990s. One year later, I can safely say that "WE DID IT!" By focusing on the "basics", we've had good monthly meetings, a strong newsletter, successful annual events and an improved record of involvement. The LVNA is alive and well! Mission accomplished.

It is now time to see if the LVNA can stand on its own, without the help of someone like me.

I've enjoyed my time as president, but it is now time for me to lay down that responsibility and let someone else take over. I've made a decision to run once more for a seat on the Sunnyvale City Council, and I will need all of my free time this coming year to pursue that goal.

The LVNA year always starts in March with elections that fill vacant board seats. This time around there will be three positions to fill. I currently hold the posts of president and secretary, and Bev Woidyla will reach her term-limit of three years as treasurer. We'll need candidates to fill those three spots by the time we hold our March meeting.

By the way, the LVNA board needs at least three members in order to conduct business. The bylaws state that a quorum of at least three people is required for the board to take any action. If there are fewer than three voting board members, the LVNA will not be able to publish the newsletter, coordinate Dumpster Day, hold the picnic, or do any of the other things it normally does. Please bear that in mind while you consider whether you can step up and take on one of these jobs for the sake of your neighbors.

While I'm announcing my upcoming retirement now, I have no plans to resign before March. I'll fill out my term and continue to serve as your president for the few remaining weeks there are before the new LVNA year starts. After I'm no longer on the LVNA board, I may continue to be involved as a kind of "news reporter" for The Villager. (We'll see).

And what happens after that? That remains to be seen. The LVNA is a strong and resilient organization because it reflects the strength and resiliency of the people that live in Lakewood Village. We have more than enough talent and energy within our borders to take the LVNA to even greater heights of achievement. The LVNA is good at finding leaders from within our midst. It is time for a new set of them to step forward.

If you are interested in serving, please let me know. We'll publish a list of candidates for office in our March newsletter (which is produced at the end of February). Please think about putting your name on the list! If you step up to the challenge, you'll find it is the hardest job you'll ever love. Being president the first time around was a trans-formative experience for me. It can be the same for you. Please think if over, then give me a call and throw your hat in the ring. You'll be glad you did. ◆

January Garden Chores For The Bay Area

By Phyllis Fowler

In the first days of January we have been experiencing frosts. Last year our hibiscus bushes were severely damaged by the overnight freezing. We lost two and almost lost two more. I recently searched the internet to get some tips for January.

I found out that you need to wait until March before pruning any perennials, shrubs or trees that were injured during the winter's freezing mornings. If it gets really cold again, the open wounds may invite further disaster. Here are some other tips I found:

- Plan on spraying your deciduous fruit trees this month. This will help control peach leaf curl. You will need to spray them one more time before Valentine's Day A copper-based spray will help control peach leaf curl and brown rot.

- Start planning your summer garden now. Now is the time to plant bare root plants. Check out what's available at nurseries and start checking out the seed packets.

- When selecting bare root roses, look for those with a grade number of one. (These are the healthiest roses available.) Camellias at the nurseries will be in bloom now; choose one that catches your eye.

- Artichokes and gladiolus can be planted this month. Plant a few gladiolas every three weeks until July for a continuous bloom from spring until fall.

- Start tomato and pepper seeds indoors in small containers or peat pots, either on a sunny window sill or beneath fluorescent lights.

If crabgrass is a problem in your yard, control it now with a pre emergent, before it germinates next month and takes over your lawn this summer!

Winter-flowering plants need to be fed with a balanced fertilizer to keep blooming in these cold months. Such as: primroses, stock, calendula, snapdragons, Iceland poppies, pansies and violas.

Now is the good time for pruning deciduous fruit trees, grapes and roses. If you're unsure how to proceed, check with your favorite nurseryperson. Two good books on the subject include Ortho's "All About Pruning" and Sunset's "Pruning Handbook".

Clean and sharpen all your pruning tools when you're done. Don't put away your pruning tools wet and dirty! It can encourage the formation of rust.

Apply a dormant oil spray on your roses and deciduous fruit trees now. This will suffocate spring and summer pests, including scale.

Add a splash of winter color to your porch or patio. Pot up transplants of primrose, cyclamen, pansy and calendula, now appearing at area nurseries.

Perennials that can be divided now. including Shasta daisies and day lilies.

When planting bare root fruit trees, make sure they will be in an area with good drainage.

Enjoy your gardening! ◆
