Happy New Year Neighbors!

By Phyllis Fowler, editor

Judy is dealing with illness in her family. (Our thoughts and prayers are with her.) She is unable to write the January President's Message, so I am subbing. I will include the winners of the Lighting Contest in February's newsletter. Judy is trying to get a representative from the 49er Stadium and the Chief of Public Safety to attend February's meeting to discuss the impact of the stadium traffic on Northside of Sunnyvale. AND WE WILL BE IMPACTED! We are considering moving the February meeting to a Saturday (probably the 15th) to accommodate more residents including the mobile home parks.

March is the LVNA's Election Month. Some of our Board officers will not be returning due to term limits. We need someone to serve as President as this is Judy's final term. Please start to think now if you would like to hold an office in this association. We cannot continue our events if neighbor's don't step up.

Since 1989, the LVNA has been a strong neighborhood association in Sunnyvale. Before 1989 we were the LVRA beginning in the early 50' up until the 1970's. It would be a shame if we no longer had a voice, since we are so isolated from the rest of Sunnyvale. ◆

Sunnyvale in Gun Battle with the NRA

By Fred Fowler

It wasn't long ago that Sunnyvale voters chose to enact a new set of regulations governing guns and ammunition within the city limits. Placed on the November ballot as "Measure C", the new regulations required all firearms to be stored under lock and key, all lost or stolen weapons be reported to the Sunnyvale Public Safety department, purchaser and transaction information for all ammunition sales be recorded and that ownership of ammunition magazines with a capacity of 10 rounds or more to be prohibited.

The money we raised will go directly toward helping our clients. Thank you one and all for helping to make this event a wonderful success! ◆

Community Christmas Center Serves Record Number of Clients This Year

The Community Christmas Center was bustling for the past two weeks here at Sunnyvale Community Services. We had over 1,200 families come through the center shopping for two weeks worth of holiday food along with gifts for their children, plus other necessities like used warm coats and a new household item including pots and pans, a blanket or a rice cooker. In addition, we also served over 550 senior families (a 20% increase from last year!). Thank you so much to all who helped bring this important community resource to so many in need this holiday season.

Canned & Packaged Foods Still Needed:

- tuna
- peanut butter
- cereal
- powdered milk (Milkman packets)
- canned stews, chili, other protein items
- canned soups
- canned fruits and vegetables
- pasta, rice, and beans

Brown Paper Bags—We use thousands every month. They are becoming more expensive but hold much more than plastic bags and stack more easily.
Hotel Collectors—Collect unopened hotel size soaps, lotions, shampoos, toothbrushes and toothpaste, and combs. Most of us think of these items as necessities, but for low-income families and seniors, they are luxuries.

Sunnyvale in Gun Battle with the NRA

By Fred Fowler

Sunnyvale voters made their will known in an unmistakable way: Measure C passed by a 2 to 1 margin, with "Yes" garnering more than 66% of the vote.

As could have been predicted, the gun industry and its representatives have reacted with a pair of lawsuits. On December 10th, the US Firearms company (a Sunnyvale gun dealer located near the intersection of Mary Avenue and El Camino Real) filed suit to invalidate the ammunition sales reporting and the lost/stolen firearm reporting requirements of the law. On December 16th, six Sunnyvale residents filed suit to lift the restrictions on ammunition magazine capacity. Both lawsuits claim the restrictions conflict with California law, Federal law and the United States Constitution.

The fact that a Sunnyvale business and six Sunnyvale residents are the "plaintiffs" for these lawsuits should not fool anyone into believing that larger forces are not involved. The US Firearms lawsuit has another plaintiff, namely the National Shooting Sports Foundation (NSSF). The NSSF is an industry association representing firearm dealers and gun shows nationwide. One of the ironic things about the NSSF is the location of its headquarters. They are based in Newtown, Connecticut and their building is only 3 miles away from the site of the Sandy Hook elementary school. The NSSF has retained a high-powered law firm from San Diego (Wright & L'Estrange) to plead its case. They have asked for an injunction to stop the law from taking effect while the suit is litigated.

The six Sunnyvale residents suing about ammunition magazine capacity have an ever bigger set of backers. The attorneys handling their case are from the law firm Michael & Associates, of Long Beach, California. The home page of the firm's web site lists "Firearms Law" as one of their principle areas of practice, and they list both the National Rifle Association and the California Rifle and Pistol Association as major long-time clients.

The Michael & Associates website states in part:

... challenging a law's constitutionality, advocating to invalidate or change a law, ... our lawyers have been there. We know where to find answers when illogical, ill-conceived and poorly implemented laws do not provide them. We know the state and local requirements and politics. Our network of professional relationships includes politicians and political staffers, as well as staff at regulatory agencies administrating firearms laws ...

Clearly, the gun industry has brought out the "heavy artillery" to challenge Measure C.

One of the tactics used in these kinds of cases is to make the prospect of court fights so expensive those cash-strapped municipal governments give up without a fight. It is worth noting that in both lawsuits the plaintiffs are asking the City of Sunnyvale to pay all of their legal costs.

The day the first lawsuit was filed, Sunnyvale got some welcome help. Sunnyvale patterned Measure C after some "model legislation" created by an organization called The Law Center to Prevent Gun Violence (LCPGV), which is a non-profit organization promoting "smart" gun laws. The same day the initial suit was filed, the LCPGV announced that one of its members – the San Francisco based law firm Farella Braun & Martel LLC – would defend the city in court, free of charge. Farella Braun & Martel is a respected firm that has been involved in a number of high profile cases, including the successful challenge to California's "Proposition 8" restrictions on same sex marriages.

The fact that Sunnyvale will be getting high-level "pro bono" legal help takes the threat of high legal costs out of the equation for the city. It will likely cause the cases to be heard in their entirety and not "settled out of court".

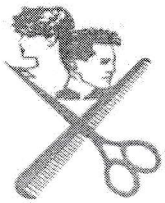

For the next few months (or even years), Sunnyvale will be on the front lines of the legal battle over "gun control". Measure C set the stage, and even though the plaintiffs are local the battle will be fought out in court by national organizations and high level law firms.

It will be interesting to watch. ◆

Rides for Toys

On December 8th Sunnyvale Department of Public Safety hosted the annual Rides-for-Toys that took place at the Toys-R-Us parking lot in Sunnyvale.

The Rides-For-Toys gives community members an opportunity to donate toys and go for a ride on a fire engine. The event ran from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and families from all over Sunnyvale donated more than 200 new toys while enjoying the fire engine rides and taking pictures with Public Safety Officers.

The toys were delivered to Sunnyvale Community Services for distribution to Sunnyvale families in need this holiday season. Four Sunnyvale Fire Engines were used to provide rides. PSO Rego entertained the crowd with holiday songs while PSO Barba provided safety education to participants as they waited in line.

Sunnyvale DPS family members Darren Chetcuti, Michael O'Brien, and Christopher Dunson helped collect all the toys and stacked them onto an antique fire engine.

Our Sunnyvale Explorer Volunteers ensured people safely got on and off the engines and made sure everyone wore their seat belt. The event would not have been successful without the support of all the many volunteer participants which included: DPS Explorers Post 417, DPS family volunteers, Sunnyvale Community Service volunteers, Photographer Dave Thompson and Len Williams of the Santa Clara County Fire Associates.

A very special thanks to Public Safety Specialist Dori Fontaine who worked behind-the-scenes to make this a fun and successful event. ◆
