Next LVNA Meeting: El Nino!

Greetings Neighbors.!

We've had a long hot summer that never seemed to end. I loved it! Temperatures were in the 80's all through September and October, with warm comfortable weather that lasted through Halloween.

I'm a summer kind of guy. Give me bright sunshine and short sleeves and I'm happy. I feel blessed that 2015 gave us such a long spell of such nice weather.

That nice weather does have its downsides, though. As we all know, we've been living through one of the longest droughts on record. All of the reservoirs are at historic low levels, with Anderson and San Luis at only about 25% of normal capacity. Earlier this year we heard a presentation by the Santa Clara Valley Water District about conserving water. Many of us have been wishing for rain.

There is an old proverb about "being careful what you wish for". It looks like El Nino might answer our prayers for rain and then some. Meteorologists have been predicting that this El Nino could be the strongest since 1998 or even 1983. Those of us who were here at the time remember that Lakewood Village suffered through some flooding during those rainy periods.

President's Column

Last Spring the people from the Water District came and spoke to us about drought conditions and how to prepare for them. We've now asked them to come back this month to speak to us about the possibility of flooding and how to prepare for it. As they say, "when it rains, it pours." We've asked the Water District to help teach us what to do when it pours this winter.

Come to the Lakewood Park building at 7:00pm on Wednesday, November 11th. We'll be talking with a representative of the Water District to find out what the long term forecast is, what kind of rainfall we can expect, and what to do when trouble comes flowing down to us. We will also share notes about various flood control projects that have happened since the 1998 deluge and what problems they have solved.

It should be quite interesting. I'll see you there! ◆

Home Safety Tips from ADT:

Keeping you and your family safety is a big deal. But sometimes, it's the little changes you make that add up to a big difference. We've collected these residential security tips to help every member of the family feel safe and secure.

Here are home security tips to help you and your family stay safe.

If possible, install a locked mailbox at your home and never put outgoing mail containing personal information in an unsecured out-box or in your mailbox for pick up.

Never leave notes on your door for service people or visitors when you are not home. It's a signal to burglars that the home is empty.

Landscaping is an important deterrent. If you live in a warm climate, thorny bushes like roses and bougainvillea can deter window break-ins.

Other visual deterrents are signs like "Beware of Dog" or "Security Cameras in Use." Security company yard signs are also effective.

When traveling, always tell a trusted neighbor you are going out of town and stop all newspapers and mail delivery.

Turn down the volume of telephones and answering machines so burglars can't hear when there isn't an answer indicating no one is home.

Don't post pictures of your vacation on social media until after you return home ◆

Time to Pass the Torch

By Fred Fowler.

Hello again neighbors. In a month we will have had the LVNA parade and the major work of the LVNA year will be behind us. It is not too soon to start thinking about how things will work when the next LVNA year begins next March.

March is when the LVNA holds elections to fill its board for the coming year. I've been elected LVNA President five times: 1996, 1997, 2010, 2014 and 2015. As I write this, I'm thinking back to all of the different people I've worked with during those years. I remember all of their names and faces. I'm sad to count how many of them are no longer around, either because they have moved away or they have passed away.

The LVNA has always been blessed with selfless people who have taken on challenges to help the neighborhood and make it a better place to live. As "old hands" drop out or move away, new people with new ideas step forward. The structure of the LVNA board fosters that kind of turn over, as no board member may serve more than three consecutive years before having to drop off and make room for new blood..

I'm afraid I have not been able to do as good of a job as LVNA president as I would have liked to this year. My father passed away in February and I've had to travel back east to help settle his affairs. I've also started out on a new career and a new business, and that has taken a great deal of my time and energy. Last year I had much more time to devote to LVNA matters, and the association prospered. This year I've had to deal with other things, and the association has suffered as a result.

I think it is time that I made room for the next person to take up the title of President and lead the LVNA through its next big adventure. For that reason, I won't be running for LVNA president again next March. I've had my turn (again) at leading the organization, and it is time to pass the job on to someone else.

If anyone is interested in replacing me and has questions about the job, please let me know. I'd be happy to let you pick my brain. I'll give you all of the "secrets" I know about how to cope with the many challenges and take advantage of the many strengths of our neighborhood.

I would also like to invite any people interested in serving to attend a board meeting or two. The board setting is the best place to learn about how the LVNA works. Let me know of your interest and I'll make sure you get an invitation.

Being President of the LVNA is a very rewarding experience. I've enjoyed it five times now. It's time for someone else to have the pleasure. I hope that you (whoever you are) will enjoy the job as much as I have. ◆ 49ers Visit Lakewood School!

Reading Partners and the 49ers teamed up in the name of literacy at Lakewood Elementary School. On September 28th , a group of San Francisco 49ers players spent their afternoon with Lakewood Lions teaching them the Importance of reading and learning.

Michael Wilhoite, Marcus Martin, Garrison Smith, Nick Easton, Tony Jerrod-Eddie, and Bradley Pinion surprised a group of second and third graders with a special read aloud session. The players read and acted out If you Take a Mouse to School by Laura Numeroff to the children's delight.

They then broke out into one-on-one sessions where they practiced reading and reviewing the sequence of events, story structure and character response events. Students then ended the day with high fives and an autographed book to chosen by the player to take home . ◆

SUNNYVALE SCHOOL DISTRICT
LEARN TODAY LEAD TOMORROW

Sunnyvale School District Programs of Choice

By Christina Ballantyne from San Miguel

When: November 17th
Time: from 6-7 pm
Where: 819 W. Iowa Ave.

We are pleased to invite you to visit us for our Sunnyvale School District Programs of Choice information session on November 17, from 6-7 p.m., at 819 W. Iowa Ave., Sunnyvale.

As our guest, you'll learn about four unique programs offered exclusively to families within the Sunnyvale School District: science-themed learning, dual-language immersion, and parent participation at the elementary school level, and an instructional partnership with Stanford University for middle school students at Columbia Middle.

You'll also get a glimpse into how we balance high expectations with caring support while delivering enriched curricula at every one of our schools to bring out the best in each young learner!

This will be an information-packed hour! Please join us, and learn how your child can benefit from the choices we offer, tuition-free, right here in the Sunnyvale School District.

If you have questions, please visit www.sesd.org, or contact Alia Wilson at 408-522-8200, ext. 1084. ◆
