Greetings Neighbors!

On April 13th our guest speaker was Bailey Hall part of the Environmental Services Dept. - City of Sunnyvale. She did a wonderful presentation about Energize Sunnyvale and the completion the city is in.

Remember you can borrow a FREE do-it-yourself Home Energy Kit from the Sunnyvale Library, Columbia Neighborhood Center or go to 505 W Olive Ave, Suite 130.

There are items you may keep including light bulbs, a low flow showerhead, and weather stripping. Let's help Sunnyvale with the competition for energy efficiency and save money on your utilities as the same time!

There will not be a meeting this month as Lakewood School has their Open House on Wednesday the 11th.
We will have a meeting June 8th.

Start saving up your junk!

Dumpster Day is coming in July.

I will have the date in our next newsletter. We will be having a Goodwill Truck for items that can be used. Last year, the LVNA received over $2,000.00 for items donated.

If you would like to volunteer to watch a dumpster, email me at sunnyphyl@gmail.com ◆

By County Supervisor Dave Cortese

It is with great enthusiasm that I announce and invite you and your constituents to join my office's 14th Annual Sacramento Bus Trip for Education on Tuesday, May 17th

Since it first began, the Bus Trip has increased from a handful of concerned residents advocating for public education funding to 165 in 2015 who were navigating through the new local control funding formula. Education advocates, parents, students, community and neighborhood leaders throughout Santa Clara County have joined us over the years.

They have met directly with dozens of state officials, senators, and assembly members to ask questions and voice their concerns about public education. Bus trip participants also learn about legislative proposals as Numerous residents were rescued from the balconies and over 25 pets were also rescued. One resident suffered burn injuries and another suffered smoke inhalation. Both residents were transported to the hospital. One DPS firefighter suffered smoke inhalation and was treated at the scene.

Scammers Fake Caller ID Info

by Andrew Johnson
Division of Consumer and Business Education, FTC

Your phone rings. You recognize the number, but when you pick up, it's someone else. What's the deal?

Scammers are using fake caller ID information to trick you into thinking they are someone local, someone you trust – like a government agency or police department, or a company you do business with – like your bank or cable provider. The practice is called caller ID spoofing, and scammers don't care whose phone number they use. One scammer recently used the phone number of an FTC employee.

Don't rely on caller ID to verify who's calling. It can be nearly impossible to tell whether the caller ID information is real. Here are a few tips for handling these calls:

If you get a strange call from the government, hang up. If you want to check it out, visit the official (.gov) website for contact information. Government employees won't call out of the blue to demand money or account information.

Don't give out — or confirm — your personal or financial information to someone who calls.

Don't wire money or send money using a reloadable card. In fact, never pay someone who calls out of the blue, even if the name or number on the caller ID looks legit.

Feeling pressured to act immediately? Hang up. That's a sure sign of a scam.

If you've received a call from a scammer, with or without fake caller ID information, report it to the Federal Trade Commission at www.ftccomplaintassistant.gov and the FCC at www.consumercomplaints.fcc.gov

(editor– I signed up to receive email alerts and advice from the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). This was one of the articles I wanted to pass on to my neighbors.)

Five Ways to Save Gas

By Katherine Palbom
Reprinted from GEICO.com website

With gas prices fluctuating daily, drivers need to get the most out of every tank. With simple fuel-saving tips, tricks and maintenance checks, you can learn to stretch your fill-up to the fullest.

Ditch the Clunker
According to the U.S. Dept. of Transportation, fuel efficiency has improved over the past 10 years. In fact, domestic light-duty vehicles got an average of 35.5 MPG in 2013 compared to an average of 29.1 MPG in 2003. Choosing a newer, more fuel-efficient vehicle can save you thousands in the long run..

Save with Safety
Making small safety changes to your daily driving habits adds up in your tank, your wallet and your well-being. Fast acceleration and hard braking lowers your gas mileage by up to 33% on the highway and 5% in a city.

Drop the Excess Weight
Rooftop cargo containers are a great help on family trips. But these space-savers create wind resistance, which makes your car work harder and burn up to 17% more fuel on the highway. Excess weight in the trunk also sucks up fuel unnecessarily at a rate of 1% for every 100 pounds. Leave empty or unused cargo containers at home and clear out clutter for a smoother ride and steeper savings.

Minimize Winter Driving
Did you know your car is less fuel-efficient in cold weather? Warming a car takes a lot of gas and can drain your tank before you even hit the road. Most manufacturers recommend warming your car for just 30 seconds and driving off slowly rather than long, idling warm-ups. Try parking your car in the garage to keep the engine warmer and combine trips and errands in the colder months.

Maintenance: Pay Now, Save Later

Staying up to date on regular vehicle maintenance keeps your car more fuel-efficient. Regular oil and filter changes keep cars running in the fuel-efficient zone. Tires that are properly inflated reduce drag and won't have your engine working overtime, increasing your gas mileage and lowering carbon emissions. ◆
