A Wonderful Afternoon: 2026 Lakewood Village Summer Picnic Recap

Thank you to everyone who joined us on Saturday, September 19 at Fairwood Park for the annual Lakewood Village Summer Picnic! It was a sunny, fun-filled afternoon bringing together longtime residents and new neighbors alike. There were about 75-90 attendees this year. From delicious tacos, fruit salad, refreshing frescas, desserts and sweets to outdoor lawn games, board games for the kids, Bingo games and prizes for all, the picnic showed once again what a warm, welcoming community we have here in Lakewood Village.

A special thank you to all the volunteers who helped make the picnic a success! Shout out to Erika and some neighborhood kids and youth and friends for painting the canvas banners that we hung up at the entrances of Lakewood Village. Much appreciation to Bev for procuring 2 gift cards from Smoker Eaters, Jamba Juice and frozen donuts from Krispy Kreme. Our local partner, Walmart generously donated water bottles, plates, napkins, muffins and cupcakes. Thank you to Darryl and Jessie for coming early to help set up tables and put table cloths on the picnic tables. Thank you to Aarti, Nupur & Saurabh for signing in attendees with name tags and meal tickets. Erika facilitated the ice breaker questions and Bingo games with fun prizes! And last but not least to the helping hands of Bev & Robin, and Keith for cleaning up afterwards. Our neighborhood events wouldn't be possible without each neighbor showing up and engaging and participating…your presence is what builds our community!!

Keeping Our Waterways Clean: Coastal Cleanup Day at Calabazas Creek

On Saturday, September 19, dedicated neighborhood volunteers rolled up their sleeves and headed down to Calabazas Creek for National Coastal Cleanup Day.

Working in partnership with the City of Santa Clara Solid Waste Creek Clean Up team and the Santa Clara Valley Water District, 14 volunteers cleaned 3 miles of creek corridor, collecting 80 lbs of litter, plastics, and debris before they could wash downstream into the Bay. Keeping our local creeks clean protects local wildlife, improves neighborhood aesthetics, and safeguards our watershed.

A huge thank you to everyone who came out in sturdy boots and work gloves to make a tangible difference in our neighborhood environment!

Volunteer Needed: Join the LVNA Board as Secretary or 2nd VP

Our neighborhood association is seeking dedicated neighbors to step into open leadership roles on the LVNA Board, including Secretary and 2nd Vice President.

As Secretary, you will assist with recording meeting minutes, keeping neighborhood records, and helping coordinate board communications. It is a light monthly commitment (a couple of hours a month) and a rewarding way to give back to Lakewood Village.

Understanding the November 2026 Sunnyvale Ballot Measures

Ballots for the November 3, 2026 general election will arrive in mailboxes in early October. Lakewood Village is in Sunnyvale City Council District 6 (represented by Council member Eileen Le). Because only Districts 1, 3, and 5 are holding council elections this cycle, Lakewood residents will not see any City Council candidates on their ballot this year.

All Sunnyvale voters will, however, vote on three proposed changes to the Sunnyvale City Charter (the city's constitution): Measures G, H, and I. Each measure needs more than 50% of the vote to pass.

Note: As a nonpartisan 501(c)(3) organization, LVNA does not endorse or oppose candidates or ballot measures. This summary is provided solely for educational purposes to help neighbors understand the choices on their ballot.

Measure G: How the City Hires Builders for Public Projects
What it does: Right now, the city charter requires the city to hire designers and construction companies through separate contracts and pick whichever company submits the lowest bid. Measure G allows the city to also use modern contracting options, such as hiring a single team to handle both design and construction together.
Arguments in favor: Supporters say this gives the city more flexibility to finish complex public projects faster, reduce delays, and prevent cost overruns. The traditional lowest-bidder process would still be available when it makes sense.
Arguments against: Critics often prefer keeping the strict lowest-bidder rule to ensure direct price competition and reduce city staff discretion when choosing contractors.

Measure H: Payout Limits for Legal Claims
What it does: If someone files a legal claim or lawsuit against the city (for example, property damage caused by a city vehicle), the City Manager can currently approve payouts only up to $50,000. Anything higher requires a formal vote by the City Council. That $50,000 limit was set in 1989. Measure H allows the City Council to update this threshold, with plans to set it at $250,000.
Arguments in favor: Supporters point out that $50,000 buys much less today than in 1989 due to inflation. Raising the limit lets the city settle minor, routine claims quickly without adding them to busy City Council agendas.
Arguments against: Opponents prefer keeping the $50,000 limit so that elected council members publicly review and vote on all major payouts.

Measure I: Filling Empty City Council Seats
What it does: If a council member leaves office early and the City Council appoints a replacement, current rules require the city to hold a special election at the first available opportunity. Measure I removes that requirement, allowing the appointed person to serve until the next regular city election.
Arguments in favor: Proponents argue that special elections cost taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars to fill a seat for only a short period. Letting an appointee finish the term until the next scheduled election saves public money.
Arguments against: Opponents believe voters should choose their representatives at the ballot box as soon as possible, rather than having an appointed official serve an extended term.

Village Vistas: Autumn Splashes of Purple at the Playground

Even as cooler mornings settle over Lakewood Village and trees begin their autumn turn, bursts of color are still thriving across the neighborhood. If you take a stroll past the playground under the bright orange shade sails, you will spot low, spreading mounds of lavender-purple blossoms brightening the mulch.

These cheerful blooms belong to trailing lantana (Lantana montevidensis), a tough, drought-tolerant perennial that feels right at home in our sunny climate. While many summer favorites fade by mid-autumn, trailing lantana continues to bloom generously. Each delicate cluster features rings of tiny purple petals surrounding warm yellow-and-white centers, framed by textured, fragrant green leaves.

It is easy to see why city landscapers and local gardeners love it. Trailing lantana shrugs off heat, needs very little water once established, and forms a dense, weed-suppressing carpet that stays green through most of the year. On warm autumn afternoons, the flowers double as a bustling stop for local honeybees and butterflies gathering late-season nectar.

Next time you are out for a walk, heading over to the playground, or chatting with neighbors on the sidewalk, take a closer look at these resilient little blooms keeping our shared greenspaces colorful.
